“ James was to me my only uncle. when small it was great to see the Texas Cowboy roll in, in his 57 chevy he would take us a ride hot rod some with us. When got old enough he help me learn to drive i still think of one thing he told me. He say Bill you see the cruve ahead of you if you let up on the gas now you want have to use the break when get ready to go in to the cruve. them was wise words from a wise man. He got the name Texas cowboy being from texas his cowboy boots driving 57 chevy black hair comb back camel cigs. that was his CB name. He was a very simple man always tell good story you just had to listen to him he didnt give u a chance to say much. I guess when i was small he was as much of a hero as a boy could have. drove a hotrod, talked about drag raceing great at working on car. like all things when growing up life get busy you think they will always be tommow. but tommow dont come. James will miss u and will always love you. R.I.P Texas Cowboy.

“ James was a man, that when I was 7 or 8 years old no else around seem to notice I had a high fever. He was setting there putting cold rags on my Head. As we got older, he never like to do anything the first time you asked him. Like play his guitar. but if you begged and pester him he'd play for hours. He was always smiling where he had one dime or not, and yes he was a grumpy old man. But I loved that old man. I really good uncle is gone now.
